Description
OneSeq is a target-enrichment product for Next Generation Sequencing (NGS) developed to survey the entire genome for copy number variations (CNVs) and copy-neutral losses of heterozygosity (cnLOH intervals) while simultaneously searching for point mutations and indels in targeted regions of interest.

The OneSeq Constitutional Research Panel contains a backbone design (for CNV and cnLOH detection) and the SureSelect Focused Exome Panel for detection of point mutations and indels in regions with known disease associations.

Test Conditions
The RNA library is functionally tested in a OneSeq capture experiment, with performance verified by sequencing. Integrity is verified on the Agilent 2100 Bioanalyzer.
